Mineral and Agricultural Resources of Montana.

The most formidable rival in point of mineral wealth which California has yet encountered is the rich and growing Territory of Montana. Probably fifteen thousand miners were employed in Montana last year, the greater proportion of whom were engaged in placer mining. Not less than double that number will be employed the present year in working the placer and quartz mines of the Territory. The gold yield of Montana for 1865 must have been over $20,000,000; as the returns of the United States Assessor show that fully three-quarters of that sum was taxed when under assay. What the yield for the present year will be, it is not easy to conjecture; but we are sure that $40,000,000 or $60,000,000 would not be an exaggerated estimate. Quartz mining, which for want of the necessary machinery, has not hitherto been carried on to any great extent in Montana, will be prosecuted energetically this year. The large amount of gold which will be obtained in this way, added to the increased products of the placers, will swell the grand aggregate of the gold yield to an inconceivable sum. Nor will the mines of Montana long be limited to the area of discoveries already made. From the South Pass to the boundary line of British America and beyond, new mines are being opened in every direction; and we may be certain that the discoveries of 1866 will not be inferior to those of 1865.

The agricultural capabilities of Montana are very considerable. We take the following on this subject from the report of the Commissioners of Agriculture. The quotation we make is from a letter from East Bannock to the Agricultural Bureau:

This Territory, as can be seen by turning to the map of the United States, is situated upon and includes the head-waters of the Missouri, Yellowstone and Columbia rivers. I will first say something about the soil for agricultural purposes. In all the valleys of any extent it is very fertile, being mostly a black loam near the rivers or streams, and on going back from them, into what is here called the bench or plateau, the soil is usually a light colored gravel, and is very productive. As a general thing, farmers will be obliged to irrigate their farms; but this in most of the valleys, is very easily done. The fall of the streams is so great that the water is readily turned out of its original channel and carried in ditches wherever the farmer wishes. Bitter-root valley, in Missoula county, is a large valley and very fertile, in which farmers can raise any kind of crop that can be grown in Minnesota or Wisconsin. The Gallatin, Yellowstone, Jefferson, Madison, and Hellgate valleys are equally as productive.

The climate of the valleys is very fine, both winter and summer. Rain seldom falls in the summer, and snow in the winter hardly ever falls to exceed two or three inches in depth, and soon melts away under the bright winter sun. Cattle and horses live and grow fat during the whole winter on grass alone. But few farmers make any preparation for feeding stock in the winter, nor do they provide any shelter but such as nature has furnished. The water is pure and clear and cold. Mountain trout can be caught in abundance in all the creeks and rivulets. Moose, deer, elk and antelope are plenty in many places. The European grasses, such as clover and timothy, are indigenous to the country, and can be found growing wild in almost every valley. All the hardier kinds of fruits can be raised here with very little trouble or expense. I have seen as fine garden vegetables raised in this Territory as I ever saw in any of the Eastern or Western States. Wheat, oats, barley, and rye grow luxuriantly. In no part of the United States can wheat of a better quality be raised, or more to the acre. The markets are good; all kinds of grain and vegetables command a high price in gold. In fact, I know of no place in the wide world, taking all things into consideration, that is more inviting to the farmer. Any prudent and industrious man can in a few years get rich by farming alone.

"HOW THE PRESS STANDS."—The Gastonian, in its last issue, classed the State Journal among the papers supporting President Johnson as against the Union majority in Congress. Just how the Journal supports the President, may be seen from the following quotations from its issue of the 10th inst. To see the force of the Journal's remarks, it is only necessary to keep in mind that the President is in great haste to have the Southern members admitted, while the loyal majority in Congress insists upon "making haste slowly." The Journal says:

It must be evident to every fair minded man who is not a traitor at heart, that the leading, active rebels, many of whom are insolently demanding to be admitted into the halls of Congress, should not only be excluded at present, but should be disqualified during the remainder of their lives for holding an office under this Government. If not hung, according to the Constitution, which prescribes death as the penalty for "levying war against the United States," or if not banished or imprisoned for life, the mildest mode of punishment ever practiced on erring traitors by any civilized nation, it would certainly be treating them with great leniency to turn them loose, with all the privileges of other citizens, except the right to hold office and exercise power which they have shown most terribly. If treason is to be made "odious," and yet the traitors are not to be hung, nor banished, nor imprisoned, nor deprived of civil rights, nor yet of any political rights, then we are at a loss to perceive the exact point where the "odium" is to come in.

When the President declared that traitors must be punished and "treason made odious," he struck the responsive chord in the loyal heart of the country. In that, every loyal man in the United States, supported him most heartily. Had he properly "punished treason;" had he gone to work earnestly and consistently to make treason odious," the entire loyal people had still supported him most heartily. But when we find that not a man has been hung for treason, but, on the contrary, treason has found no difficulty in procuring over twenty thousand pardons in less than a year, and the President is now, within a few months after his famous declaration, found an earnest backer of late rebel leaders in an application for seats in a loyal Congress, the loyal people, like the Journal, are at a loss to know where the "odious" is to come in.

The Journal proceeding, suggests:

Perhaps those who spend one half their time in denouncing "radicals," and the remainder in talking about a "conservative policy" can explain it.

The Journal's admiration of the Gastonian's acumen in discovering that President Johnson is all there is remaining of the Union party is manifested thus:

This should be explained by the unfortunate individual who declares that "it is true" that the "radicals" have deserted the Union party and the President. A fellow who can see that 108 Union members of Congress, in opposing 37 copperheads and half-a-dozen stragglers and camp followers, have placed themselves in opposition to the Union party, can perceive that which a microscope would not reveal. In other words, a man who can discover that the Union party of the nation which Congress fairly represents, is not the Union party, and that "somo other man" is the aforesaid Union party, must have a splendid head for hash or "loaves and fishes," and if treason cannot be made "odious" any other way let it follow their contemptible example and it will become "odious" soon enough.

If the Gastonian does not after receiving such a slap in the face as that, re-hash its lie and leave the Journal out, we shall have to conclude that it is as completely lost to shame as to truth and fairness.

THE FALLEN REBEL AT FORTRESS MONROE.—While legislators are discussing the questions of the time when and mode by which Jefferson Davis shall be tried, the chief himself, it is said, is rapidly wasting away, and betraying evidences of his near approach to that bourne where there will be no difference of opinion as to the punishment due to his high crimes against humanity. And he is breaking up in mind as well as body, says a Fortress Monroe letter, and his attention now is chiefly given to fault-finding and reading the Bible. His talk is of his family, and of his own status in the next world. With regard to the latter, his opinions seem to differ considerably from that of a great many people, but it is quite natural that it should. But his main anxiety is for the future of his family, and it is said that he expresses much satisfaction with the efforts that are being made at the South to place them above pecuniary want. For his own fate he cares nothing—for that of his family much. Here the fallen chief touches a cord that will respond widely in sympathy with him. One can forget for a moment the crimes of the man in hearing of this unselfish anxiety for the welfare of others. But only for a moment.

ALEXANDER HAMILTON.—What strikes us most forcibly, in considering Hamilton's career, is the remarkably early development of his powers. At thirteen he was found competent to take charge of a mercantile establishment. At fifteen his writings won for him public applause and the aid of friends. At seventeen he addressed, with great success, a public meeting. At eighteen his anonymous productions are attributed to some of the leading men of America. At nineteen he has thought out the principles of government which is indelibly associated with his name. At twenty, he has not only proved himself a skillful and courageous soldier, but he has won the esteem of the grave and reserved Washington, and is placed by that great man in a post of the closest confidence, and which really makes him the second man in the American service.

At twenty-one, he has shown that he is master of the intricate subject of finance. At twenty-five, after an active military life that had allowed no time for study, he is known as a lawyer of the first order. At twenty-six, he is distinguished as a member of Congress. At thirty, he takes a leading part in forming the Constitution of the United States. And, in his thirty-third year, he becomes the most extraordinary finance minister the world has ever seen. He was statesman, soldier, writer and orator, and first in each department. He was as ready for all the departments which he filled as if he had been long and studiously trained for each of them by the best instructors.

When Mr. Webster compared the instantaneousness and perfection of his financial system to the "fabled birth of Minerva," he did not allude to what is to be remarked of all Hamilton's works. All that he did was perfect; and no one seems to be aware of his power until he has established the fact of its existence. Such a combination of precocity and versatility stands quite unparalleled. Octavius, William the Third, Henry St. John, Charles Fox, and William Pitt, the younger, all showed various powers at early periods of their lives; but not one of them was the equal of Hamilton in respect to early maturity of intellect, or in ability to command success in every department to which he turned his attention. The historical character of whom he most reminds us is the elder Africanus.

In the early development of his faculties, in his self reliant spirit, in his patriotism, in his kindliness of mind, in his personal purity, in his generosity of thought and of action, and in the fear and envy that he excited in inferior minds, he was a repetition of the most majestic of all the Romans. But, unlike, the Roman soldier statesman, he did not desert the land he had saved, but which had proved ungrateful; and the grave only was to be his literum. He died at not far from the same age as that to which Africanus reached. In comparing him with certain other men who achieved fame early, it should be remembered that they all were regularly prepared for public life, and were born to it as to an inheritance; whereas he, though of patrician blood, was possessed of no advantages of fortune, and had to fight the battle of life while fighting the battles of the nation.—Atlantic Monthly.

BLUNDERS OF PUNCTUATION.—Advertisements and paragraphs of various kinds often find their way into newspapers, in which, by the omission of a comma, or more frequently, in consequence of an awkwardly constructed sentence, the most extraordinary statements are made. For example; a newspaper states:

A child was run over by a wagon three years old and cross-eyed with pantalets on which never spoke afterward.

An exchange, describing a celebration says:

The procession was very fine, and nearly two miles in length as was the prayer of Dr. Perry the chaplain.

A Western paper announces:

A cow was struck by lightning, and instantly killed, belonging to the village physician, who had a beautiful calf four days old.

In the report of a certain School Committee the following occurs:

We have a school-house large enough to accommodate 400 pupils four stories high.

It gives one an idea of progress to see such an advertisement as this:

Wanted—A young man to take charge of a pair of horses of a religious turn of mind.

In this connection it may be mentioned that on the sands at Scullercoats, near Tynemouth, England, a board has been fixed, on which is inscribed the following notice:

Any person passing beyond this point will be drowned by order of the magistrate.

GREELEY FALLS AMONG THIEVES.—The following story is told about Horace Greeley:

This distinguished journalist was coming one afternoon, more abstracted and slovenly than usual, from the Bible House where he locks himself in every day and labors on his "American Conflict," when he happened to be swallowed up in the crowd of vagrants and thieves that are daily sent from the Tombs (city prison) to Blackwell's Island, East river. The white-coated philosopher finding himself in such company, endeavored to get out of it; but a zealous Dogberry, thinking, from his costume, that he was a vagrant, desirous of escaping, seized him by the collar and marched him to the boat, amid the jeers of the unfortunate wretches who believed him to be one of their crew. Greeley protested again and again that he had several editorials to write for the Tribune, and must not be detained; but this declaration caused the police to declare that the "old covo was crazy," and must go to the Lunatic Asylum. The boat full of malefactors, had already steamed out in the river, when some one in the vessel recognized Horace Greeley—mad as a hornet, and using some very strong expletives by this time—and released him from his disagreeable predicament, greatly to the delight of the perplexed editor, and to the profound mortification of the over-earnest policeman.

DAN. MOSS, a rebel scout during the late war, was killed a few days since, above Winchester, while attempting to take up a horse which he claimed to be, branded, and the property of the United States.

Augusta, Georgia, owes about one million dollars, and the Constitutionalist thinks that there is great danger of that municipality becoming bankrupt.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE

FRIDAY MORNING MARCH 16 1866

The People

In the telegraphic news of yesterday, we had some of the opinions of the leading press in the Atlantic States relative to the present National situation It is observable that the tone of the copperhead quotations is exultant, and the World reveals the fact that confusion among the different branches of the government is worth more to its venal faction of copperheads and rebels than would be the admission of all the Southern Representatives In other words, the World is exceedingly rejoiced that no plan of reconstruction is agreed upon between the Legislative and Executive branches of the Government In this view it is that the World declares, "the country has reason to be encouraged," and that "the country will enjoy their mutual recriminations and their impotent rage." The Herald, one of the most effective disorganizers with which any country was ever cursed, declares, for the encouragement of the still rebel element, that Congress "is not a Congress under the Constitution, but a faction governing in defiance of that instrument" The Herald is evidently looking toward, and preparing the way for, that Democratic coup d'etat foreshadowed the other day by Garrett Davis—the supercession of the present Congress and the recognition of another, composed of Confederate members elect, and the "Kentucky conservative chaps" of the North, the old time allies of the Confederacy It closes its most pernicious appeal to the fears, prejudices and disorganizing passions of the country with a solemn reference of the destiny of the Republic to the people who alone can now preserve it. The implication of the Herald is that the country can no longer be trusted to its agents, and that a political revolution is now the dernier resort.

While we fully recognize the many difficulties besetting the path to a full reconstruction of the Union, we are by no means able to see so many ravening lions in the way as are visible to the optics of the Herald and its co-workers in disorganization. We do not believe a political revolution at all necessary, nor do we believe one possible, even though Congress and the President should delay the work of reconstruction during their respective terms. We are entirely willing to repose upon the people and more, we are not willing to withdraw our confidence from the people's representatives, simply because, in the prosecution of the greatest work ever entrusted to them, they find many things to balk their wisdom and try their integrity. The American people have been tried, in the last few years, a great test of endurance and steadiness of purpose. To-day, they are as inexorable as the fixed laws of the Medes and Persians or the decrees of Fate, in their march toward the establishment of a perfect republican government, based on the highest ideas of human freedom and human rights. Nothing human can or will stop their march. Turbulent factions may get in the way, and for a time retard their progress, but in the end such obstacles will be ground to dust, while the people move on majestically in their great purpose. The people are [illegible] wrong and never so for any great length of time. Vox populi, vox Dei. To the people, then, let the reference be made. They have [illegible] and endured as no people ever did before, and if, after passing through the furnace of rebellion, their policies have not been [illegible] so [illegible] political faction, then, indeed is the hope of a people's government utterly gone. To the people belongs the victory over rebellion and to them belong its fruits. They may be trusted to gather them and enjoy them.

New Hampshire has just demonstrated that the people are not false to the great [illegible] for which they have fought the last five years and to which [illegible]. The people of New Hampshire are not [illegible] but the [illegible] in the political cauldron, but are holding straight forward in that path which they have found to be the only safe one. Political hucksters and alarmists may [illegible] from the [illegible] Union majority in New Hampshire, right in the very midst of an alarm scarcely exceeded since the dark day of Bull Run, how impotent they are to turn aside or deceive the people. The coming elections in other States will repeat the instructive lesson to them.

MISSISSIPPI "RECONSTRUCTED."—An indignant rebel named Yancey, of De Soto county, Mississippi, writes to Gen. Fisk of the Freedmen's Bureau, concerning a colored girl who had been sold away from her parents: "[illegible] the right [illegible] to their [illegible] can say that not one Southern man nor [illegible] in the whole South [illegible] the negro as a [illegible] but as stolen property forcibly by the bayonets of the [illegible] United States Government."

[illegible]'s vision, says the New York Tribune, [illegible] him to a pardon. For ourselves, we can't see why a pardon should not be at once [illegible] for one who gives such satisfactory evidence of being "reconstructed." With [illegible] at Washington than ever [illegible] were, no "Southern patriot" should be without one.

A friend, some years acquainted with the Mr Nesby who fathered the unique but very Democratic resolutions adopted at the Confederate pow wow at McMinnville, the other day, says that Mr Nesby was a rampant Whig, and one of the most violent haters of the Democratic party, up to the time of the secession mania, when he found his appropriate place and his proper level among the enemies of the Union. He is a beautiful pink to be howling now in praise of Jefferson and Jackson Democracy; something which he formerly [illegible] and reviled as a Whig, and since, as a Confederate Democrat.

VERY DEMOCRATIC.—The dispatches of to-day mention a very thoroughly democratic exhibition in the Senate Saulsbury's entrance into the chamber so democratically drunk as to make it necessary to have him carried out. This is not the first exploit of drunken democracy from the U S. Senate Saulsbury is the beast who talks about the inferiority of other men compared with himself! The blackest slave of the black king of Dahomey possesses more nobility than this model Democratic Senator

THE STRENGTH OF ICE —The ordnance department of the Government has laid down the following rule, with regard to the strength of ice Ice two inches thick will bear infantry, four inches cavalry with light guns, six inches, heavy field guns, and eight inches, the heaviest siege guns, with 1,000 pounds weight to the square foot

The Red Bluff (Cal ) Independent, a paper that went off with the California bolters last summer and now an ardent admirer of the President gives that noted personage the following rather doubtful compliment: "Would to God Johnson had the same nerve to withstand the cup that he showed in his veto message!"

We challenge any man to name a Democrat in Oregon that has hurrahed for the Statesman He can't be found —Statesman

And we challenge any man to name a Union man in Oregon that has hurrahed for it much He can't be found And there are very few to be found who hurrah for it even faintly.

The Legislatures of the following States have voted to sustain Congress in its position on the question of reconstruction Maine, Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Nevada, California and Ohio Yet "Congress has forsaken the Union party!"

State Items

Freight is now being taken from the Dalles at thirty five to forty five cents per pound to the Blackfoot mines

Low Day has resigned the agency of the O S N Co, at Wallula with the view of going to Montana

Among the notables in town yesterday, we noticed General Steele who has just returned from a visit up the Willamette valley Judge Hewitt, of Washington Territory who has just come over to hold the spring term of court at Vancouver, Judge Stratton of the Second Judicial District; and Brevet Captain Williams, U S A who is ordered to Fort Vancouver for duty

The delegates to the Douglas County Convention from Oakland precinct are F G Young N W Allen James Cole, H C Underwood Sam'l Handsaker William Haynes, H Davis S Wheeler, Nicholas Day, P C Parker

The people of the Dalles have an organized "social club with the following officers Chas Goldbaum President; E Schutz Vice President L Newman Secretary Geo A. Liebe, Treasurer, H Foster, C B Koegel and H Wentz Trustees

IT IS WELL —The California dailies have got a big thing on items and they are pressing it When everything else fails, they fall back on Wells, alias Donald McDonald, the Sacramento murderer The present condition of the items market stands thus —The man arrested in Idaho has arrived at Sacramento, and is being exhibited daily to crowds of sheriffs, constables, policemen, jailors and divers disreputable characters for identification. Some think him Wells and others think him not Wells, while Donald swears he is neither Wells nor any relation of Wells, and feels very unwell at being thus mistaken for a murderer The majority of examining witnesses are one day pretty sure that he is Wells, and then the crowd shout "'tis well;" but the next day the preponderance of opinion goes the other way and then Wells thinks 'tis well The Appeal of the 3d inst. says:

This afternoon the process of identification so goes on that doubt of its being the real Wells is evaporating Overseers of the chain gang wardens of the county jail and persons most likely to know him, are of the opinion, It is Wells.

If the man really be Wells, then it is well But while there is any reasonable doubt, it would be well to give the man, Wells or not Wells the benefit of it. 'Twere well, Wells were hung but not well to hang a man not Wells, for Well's crime

TRAITORS GETTING BOLD —The recent action of the President emboldens the rebels The San Francisco Examiner says:

Congress will not turn the President out of the White House Let them dare try it, and they would find themselves enjoying "hard tack" and water in the Old Capitol Prison Congress is itself an usurpation. It has revolutionized the Government It has excluded eleven sovereign States from its deliberations. It has stricken down the Constitution, which guarantees two Senators and so many representatives to each State, and the individuals claiming to be Congress are as much in rebellion as the Montgomery Convention which framed the Confederate Constitution The President would not be likely to surrender the executive power into the hands of such a nest of disorganizing conspirators.

KENTUCKY LOYALTY —One of the signs of the growing "loyalty" in Kentucky, is the recommendation of the Louisville Courier of John C. Breckinridge for a seat in the United States Senate We have no doubt, says the St Louis Democrat, the Legislature would elect him if assured that the President would pardon him.

THE OLDEST AND LARGEST

LIFE INSURANCE CO.

In the United States!

EVERY DESCRIPTION OF POLICY ISSUED

ALL POLICIES ARE NON FORFEITABLE

Dividends are declared Annually—which can be applied as Cash in reducing the yearly premium commencing on the second year or towards buying more insurance

The last Dividend (Feb 1st 1866) was nearly double in amount and in proportion to premiums paid than was ever declared in the same space of time by any other Company in the world

EXAMPLES

OF DIVIDENDS ON POLICIES ISSUED IN 1864

| Am't Policy | Am't Dividends | Am't Premiums Paid |

| $10 000 00 | $616 00 | $253 00 |
| 10 000 00 | 539 02 | 204 40 |

| 2 000 00 | 118 44 | 66 84 |
| 1,000 00 | 52 64 | 25 82 |

EXAMPLES

OF POLICIES PAID BY THE COMPANY

| Original Am't Policy | Dividend Additions | Total Am't Pd |
|---|---|---|
| $10,000 00 | $6,920 00 | $16,920 00 |
| 5,000 00 | 3 278 43 | 8,278 43 |
| 4 000 00 | 2 389 53 | 6,389 53 |
| 1,000 00 | 1,508 30 | 2,508 30 |

N B.—Particular attention is requested to the advantages afforded by the payment of the premiums, on both Life and Endowment insurance policies in TEN ANNUAL INSTALLMENTS The rates of such premiums charged by this Company are lower while the dividends are greater, than in any other life company in the United States. As an additional inducement, the Company will, on surrender of such policy, issue a paid up policy for an equitable sum which they will guarantee SHALL EXCEED the proportionate part

For instance, on surrender of a policy for $10 000 (other amounts in the same proportion) on which the premiums are payable in ten annual instalments the Company will HAVE PAID-UP POLICY which they will guarantee

After the payment of 2 premiums SHALL EXCEED $2000 [illegible] 3000

And so on. On the Five Year Life Plan the pro rata is double

ENDOWMENT POLICIES are issued payable to the assured at death or any age between 40 and 65, with full participation in the surplus of the Company, thus combining Life Insurance with a safe and profitable investment

PARTICULAR ATTENTION is called to the Table of Rates by Ten Annual Installments for "Endowments," issued by this Company which present UNEQUALED ATTRACTIONS EITHER AS AN INVESTMENT OR PROVISION IN CASE OF PREMATURE DEATH for it is now universally conceded that aside from the Life Insurance which is [illegible] with the Policy, that there is no way of investing small installments in so safe and highly advantageous a manner, as it gives the assured the entire benefits of an immense capital and well regulated Financial Institution To parties in business it is invaluable, and by many [illegible] an actual necessity for present purposes ALONE, for aside from its many other advantages it constitutes the VERY FINEST FORM OF COLLATERAL upon which to borrow to convert into cash in cases of emergency, which can be [illegible] accomplished, and for a far greater sum than has been expended on the Policy—inasmuch as from the first it shares in the annual dividends of the Company—and is non-forfeitable for a full proportionate amount of the entire policy for each and every year's premium paid thereon.

The above class of Policy is attracting much attention, throughout the United States THOUSANDS who have been [illegible] declined insuring are now rapidly availing themselves of its benefits, as the marvelous rate of increase in the assets of this Company will attest. The cash [illegible] of this Company [illegible] in amount the total cash [illegible] of the other sixteen companies combined, [illegible] in the State of New York, while the CASH dividends for the last two years were nearly double that ever declared by any other Company

Parties [illegible] to insure should start in at once to SECURE A FULL YEAR'S DIVIDEND to be declared February 1st, 1867 Apply to

OUR INDUSTRIAL PURSUITS—WAGONS CARRIAGES ETC.—But few carriages are now being imported to the Pacific coast from Eastern manufactories mainly owing to the fact that among the various branches of mechanical pursuits which have grown into importance here since the war the wagon and carriage business is one of the most successful in competing with the East. Importers have been able in times past to realize large profits, from the sale of Eastern carriages in the markets of California and Oregon especially. But now we learn, the satisfaction of knowing that the principal part of the business of manufacturing for the coast is done at home. The oldest importing houses of San Francisco, and many other small dealers, have abandoned the [illegible] which must have amounted to not less than half a million dollars annually, as we learn from the [illegible] reviews of the last year. In this city wagon and carriage making promises to become one of the most important branches of our industrial pursuits in a very short time. In looking back for a few years we can see a very [illegible] factory increase in the business and to-day [illegible] point to establishments in this city that are a credit to the State. Yesterday we took a look through the establishment of Messrs W E Cooper & Co, on Second street near Alder. They are producing vehicles not to be surpassed by the very best shops of the United States, [illegible] any person who professes to have a knowledge of a good carriage call there and observe the work, from the ironing to the nailing, painting and finishing, and they cannot fail to pass judgment in favor of the home institution. The [illegible] which has attended this firm can be taken as proof of the satisfaction given by them to their customers. The variety of the styles of vehicles on hand at their repository is nearly equal to that of an old [illegible] place at the East, and the quality is actually superior. Evidence of this statement may be found in their rooms, where we met with workmen repairing new Eastern made vehicles, that have been run but a short time, but which were put together with glue, in parts where [illegible] should have been used, and from the fact that nearly all the repairing done is on imported vehicles. Among the stock on hand at Messrs Cooper & Co.'s we [illegible] style of thoroughbrace coach, light open and top buggies, Phaetons, Rockaways, express wagons and some in process of construction, after the celebrated [illegible] Watson style of buggies. The company propose the present year, to erect a new manufactory, [illegible] convenience for the accommodation of their [illegible] business, and while we feel a pride in all local [illegible], which will enrich and save the State so much of her wealth, we think the public should congratulate [illegible] upon the success of such establishments, and encourage their efforts in their beneficial undertakings.

A SAD CASE.—Yesterday we learned of rather a sorry case likely to come before the courts of this county soon [illegible] a family by the name of Johnson, residing in St. Johns precinct, have met with misfortunes from time to time, and are now in very straightened circumstances. J. has been a cripple for years, and one [illegible] an invalid, having been sick for a long time. Mrs. J., by [illegible] working hard, managed to maintain the family [illegible] long like a year ago, by trading came [illegible] of three mules, a wagon and harness. The [illegible] subsisted upon grass, and it is supposed [illegible] upon the rights of some neighbors [illegible] of revenge, one day last week shot two [illegible] One of the mules has since [illegible] is not likely to survive. The team [illegible] of this city last summer, earn[illegible] and were valued at nearly $1,000 [illegible] $600 for them. Mrs. Johnson applied [illegible] to arrest two persons who are [illegible] the parties who shot the mules. It is [illegible] If the animals were an annoyance to [illegible] there, those who were subjected to the trouble [illegible] in a different manner to have jus[illegible]. We are sorry to be compelled to admit [illegible] Multnomah county, men with so little [illegible] such detestable acts, but surely trust [illegible] they may receive the fullest [illegible] The family owning these animals are [illegible] and possibly may [illegible] the brutish party who has bereft [illegible] of obtaining a living are able to [illegible] courts in dollars and cents equivalent [illegible] as well as the [illegible] of an outraged [illegible] and the God of the universe.

[illegible]—The festival of the Good [illegible] given at Metropolis Hall in Vancouver, on the [illegible] 1866, [illegible] We have been in every [illegible]. The delegation from Portland numbered [illegible] two hundred, who went over on the steamer [illegible] Troup, and after arriving at Van[illegible] escorted by the 14th U S Infantry Band [illegible] Hall, which was decorated upon all sides [illegible] suitable to the [illegible], and [illegible] with our national colors. For about [illegible] was indulged in, together with [illegible] to the measured strain of excellent [illegible] by the above named band. At [illegible] several toasts were read, which [illegible] by Messrs Delver, Brown, Rinee, [illegible] in happy style. The [illegible] to the toast of "The 14th U S Infantry [illegible] mention. [illegible] in glowing [illegible] part performed by the band in connection [illegible] those [illegible] will never be forgotten while time shall last. [illegible] the speaker proposed three cheers for the Band, which were given with a good [illegible] to their hearts' content, of a first-rate [illegible] until [illegible] A. M., those from Portland [illegible] went aboard the steamer and [illegible] home at 2 o'clock, and thus ended another [illegible] between the [illegible] and Portland.

[illegible] Julius Strauss and [illegible] on [illegible] evening by [illegible] in charge of [illegible] larceny in [illegible] by stealing silks, [illegible] patterns, [illegible] night back by the [illegible] last evening [illegible] tried in jail in default of bail for their [illegible] before Justice Hoffman this [illegible] was [illegible] of several hundred dollars, [illegible] Mrs. Worth and Mrs. Levy. The boys [illegible] and arrested several persons where [illegible] A part was also [illegible] when arrested [illegible] was very [illegible] to his charge, and [illegible] the Police office, baggage and all, [illegible] having their horses taken care [illegible] stable of the city. The boys had [illegible] whatever, in [illegible] of their thoughts [illegible] situation.

[illegible] AND THE [illegible] UNION.—Mr. John [illegible] that his name appeared in connection [illegible] this hole in Vaughn's building, known [illegible] a saloon. Being an old citizen, and [illegible] known as such in the city, some explanation [illegible] his connection with the [illegible] out of it, and it is given out of justice [illegible]. The saloon [illegible] into his hands after [illegible] of Wagner's obligation [illegible] to make himself safe. This was the [illegible] of Mr. [illegible] the bond of Wagner. He [illegible] several [illegible] to save himself from loss, and [illegible] to run the saloon in his own name, until he could [illegible] of it, and obtained the [illegible] from the [illegible] Clerk, and gave it to parties to use for him. We are not surprised that Mr. P. should feel annoyed at the [illegible] things have taken; and we [illegible] in the city did [illegible] to ensure him for that [illegible] he had with the place, under the [illegible].

THE QUARTZ BAND.—[illegible] band of [illegible] musicians are now pretty much organized, and are quartered on [illegible] steamboat Orient. On the last trip a number of [illegible] along who had heard of this musical [illegible] O. S. N. Co. make no [illegible] involved, [illegible] their musical powers. If the pieces [illegible] not equal to those of the 14th Infantry [illegible] called forth an equal amount of applause. The fact is this troupe of amateurs are not [illegible] and certainly deserve credit for their [illegible] and taste. Application for this band may be made to Purser Ingalls on board during the usual [illegible], or to the [illegible] of Wells, Fargo & Co.

[illegible] COURT. J. J. HOFFMAN J., March 15, 1866
[illegible], [illegible] waiter girl at the Mammoth Saloon, in the [illegible] of Vaughn's building, arrested on [illegible] of robbing Lewis Miller, discharged, as the prosecuting witness was nowhere to be found. Patrick Bol[illegible], arrested for assault on James Lyon—case compromised [illegible] the statute as made and provided, and costs paid. John Lee and Edward Lamb, [illegible] of [illegible] Burke, for stealing [illegible]. On account of the youthfulness of the latter he was [illegible] the former was sent to jail for ten days.

[illegible] STEAMERS.—The telegraph informs us that both the Brother of the Anchor Line and the Pacific of The California Steam Navigation Company, left San Francisco [illegible] day at 12 o'clock for this city. The steamer Sierra Nevada of the Oregon, California and Mexico line, [illegible] at San Francisco from here, at four o'clock [illegible] afternoon. She left on Tuesday morning at five o'clock, and hence has made a remarkably quick trip [illegible] 55 hours.

FAILED TO APPEAR.—The old gentleman from Lewis River, so nicely "taken in" at the Mammoth dead-fall in the [illegible] of Vaughn's building, on Tuesday night failed to appear as summoned yesterday and after continuing the case until 1 o'clock P. M., the defendant Kate Rogers, was discharged. The man probably [illegible] "sold" the matter and left for home. His name we understand is Lewis Miller, and he has for a long time been a resident of Washington Territory.

[illegible].—Leon Gerardo and M Frank were arrested yesterday for an assault on Chas Hestler, and Karl Gerarde was arrested for an assault on Minnie Engel. Bonds were given for appearance at the Recorder's Court to-day. The cases grew out of a refusal on the part of [illegible] to pay Gerardo certain accounts before leaving the [illegible] Hotel.

[illegible].—The bark Almatia leaves this morning for San Francisco direct, in tow of the steamer John H Couch, taking the tug Rabboni on her arrival at Astoria for sea. The following cargo is shipped by her: Pork, [illegible]; apples 220 boxes; wool, 6 000 lbs; hides, 300; [illegible] and dry onions, 12 sacks; skins, 1 bales; wood, 50 cords.

[illegible].—Both steamers in the trade of the Willamette came to their wharves in this city last evening loaded with passengers, freight and stock. A very large number [illegible] have passed through the city, within the past month, for the upper country.

DRY GOODS SALE.—In addition to furniture, etc., Mr Richardson will sell at auction to-morrow a quantity of dry goods.

[illegible] STOUGHTON.—The widow of the man murdered at [illegible], Mr Stoughton, passed through the city yesterday en route for her father's house in Linn county.

Multnomah No. 2.—DRILL this (Friday) eve at 7½ o'clock.

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO MARCH 14.

Congressional Proceedings

WASHINGTON, March 14.—The House passed the Senate bill in relation to the U. S. Supreme Court, with amendment that after each term of the court a certified copy of the decisions thereof shall be furnished to heads of departments.

Mr Spaulding of Ohio explained that the joint resolution offered by himself for taxation [illegible] characterized as [illegible] wished it [illegible] he did the people of the sys[illegible]. The object of the proposition was simply to permit greenbacks to be taxed in the State just as State bank notes have been taxed. He did not intend the resolution to apply to interest bearing bonds.

Mr Stevens confessed that when he made the remark complaining of it he was not fully aware of the object, and his remark was inapplicable.

The House proceeded to consider the bill to protect military officers from civil prosecution for acts done during the rebellion by virtue of military authority [illegible].

Mr Cook of Illinois advocated the bill saying it was similar to the act of 1863 approved by President Lincoln, and that the Government is bound to protect these officers.

Mr Harding of Kentucky, opposed it and made a speech to show how the act could be used to protect the most despotic and outrageous abuses. Further consideration of the bill was postponed till to-morrow.

The Speaker presented the resolution of the Oregon Legislature regarding the tax on mining claims. It was referred to the committee on mines and mining. The Speaker also presented a resolution of the Oregon Legislature relating to the annexation of Walla Walla county, Washington Territory, to that State. Referred to the committee on Territories.

The House went into committee of the whole on the joint resolution making appropriation for the Paris international exhibition.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Freeman Clark, Controller of the Currency Department, issued a letter to Deputy Controllers saying that the public statement of the condition of the Treasury is inexcusably erroneous, [illegible] that the Secretary sold during last month with authority of law, $10,000,000 of bonds, and concludes, I will [illegible] that I can show to the satisfaction of any one that neither of your monthly reports for the last four months have shown within $50,000,000 the amount of money in the Treasury on deposit to Government credit.

Mr Saulsbury, of Delaware, appeared on the floor of the Senate to day in so [illegible] condition of drunkenness that he had to be removed.

It is reported the deficiency appropriation bill with an amendment, reducing items and striking out others, among them the item for expense of taking the census of Arizona in 1864, provides a salary for the sub Treasurer at San Francisco, and $1,500 for additional Assistant Treasurer.

The House passed a joint resolution appropriating $100,000 lawful money for expense attending the display of American articles in the Paris exhibition and that the President furnish one or more vessels for the transportation of such articles to France.

The committee on public lands reported that the proposed equalization of soldiers' bounties by the issue of land warrants would secure one fourth of the public domain for that purpose, the effect of which would be to reduce the value of warrants, stimulate speculation to a most alarming extent, check emigration and practically defeat the purpose of the Homestead law. The committee therefore ask a reference of the whole matter to the Military committee, with the recommendation that the committee report a bill for the equalization of bounties in money or the issue of bonds.

The army bill, as it finally passed the Senate to day provides for ten white and two colored regiments of cavalry, forty-two white and eight colored regiments of infantry, and one thousand Indian scouts for frontier service; all companies, in time of peace to be minimum; one-third artillery regiments remain unchanged, and officers above the grade of lieutenant are to be from West Point, the remainder, volunteers who have creditably [illegible] two years. The veteran reserve corps is thrown [illegible]. The bill goes to the House, where another is pending more favorable to volunteers.

Death of Jared Sparks.

BOSTON, March 14.—Jared Sparks, the historian, and ex-President of Harvard College, died at Cambridge this morning, of pneumonia.

Chilean Agents in Trouble.

NEW YORK, March 14.—Senor Mackenna, Chilean agent, and Stephen Chinch, Chilean Consul, charged with attempted violation of neutrality laws, were held to $5000 bail each, to-day, in the U. S. Circuit Court.

California News.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 15.—The funeral of Samuel H Parker will take place on Sunday next at 10 o'clock P. M., in order to allow delegations of Odd Fellows from abroad time to visit the city, to take part in paying the last sad token of respect to the memory of their late [illegible] brother. To-day the Courts have all adjourned in [illegible].

Just before the Montana sailed this morning, the men were [illegible] in taking freight, when a box containing some kind of [illegible], suddenly exploded as it was being lowered into the ship's hold, with a loud noise, and volumes of [illegible] shot out in every direction, threatening to set the ship on fire. The flames were extinguished, however, before any considerable damage was done. The steamer [illegible].

"David [illegible]," who was arrested on his way over the mountains, for [illegible] counterfeit greenbacks, pleaded guilty to every count in the indictment against him, yesterday, and will be sentenced by Judge Hoffman on Saturday.

The Pacific Mail steamer Golden Age, which left Panama the afternoon of March 1st, where she connected with the [illegible] leaving New York, Feb. 21st, arrived here at 9 A. M. to-day.

The steamer Sierra Nevada, 55 hours from Portland, arrived here to-day noon. She brings $35,600 in treasure.

Central and South American News.

By the steamer Golden Age we have Central American dates to March 1st. The Panama Herald says the engineer entrusted with the survey of the passage supposed to exist between the Tagua and the Cirote rivers, with a view to opening an inter oceanic communication, has returned and been quite successful. The line of steamers between Panama and Australia will commence running in June next. [illegible] persons, mostly Californians, left Panama on February 13th for the New Granada [illegible] been [illegible] excited over the [illegible] out of the steamer Uncle Sam as a supply ship for the Spanish fleet. The vessel was recently sold by the Pacific Mail Steamship Company to J. S. Hereford & Co., who loaded her with provisions, etc. Her application for clearance was refused. Subsequently an armed force took possession of her by order of the President of the [illegible], but on the 23d of February, she was released at the request of the United States Consul, but placed [illegible] not to leave her anchorage. The owners entered a protest, and finally, on their giving a pledge that neither the vessel nor her cargo should be sold to the Spanish, a clearance was granted and she was preparing to depart.

By the steamer from Panama, we have later South American dates. The reported destruction of two Peruvian war vessels is confirmed. The blockading fleet at Valparaiso consisted of only two vessels, the rest having gone in search of Chilean and Peruvian vessels. The Spaniards had received supplies by one English and one American vessel. The foreign consuls at Valparaiso had had several meetings and drawn up a protest against the [illegible] orders, prohibiting the exportation of coal from Chilean ports.

A monetary crisis was impending in Lima and Callao. The Bank of De Providencia suddenly suspended payment, and monetary matters were in a bad way generally. [illegible] had entered into an offensive and defensive alliance with Chili and Peru against Spain.

[illegible] Matters and Mining Shares.

A private telegram reports gold in New York yesterday 126⅝, and sterling exchange 108@108¼, irregular. Our market for legal tenders is without important change. Sales at the board of $30,000 at 76¼. Savage fell $60, Belcher $25, Imperial $3, Overman $5, and Confidence $1. Yellow Jacket sold up to $750.

The Golden Age brings $190,000 in treasury notes to the U. S. Sub-Treasurer.

Sailed March 15—Steamer American, San Juan Del Sur. Steamer Pacific, Portland. Steamer Montana, Portland.

PUBLIC SENTIMENT.—We observe, says the Stockton Independent, that the telegraph is quite busy manufacturing, or endeavoring to manufacture public sentiment in approval of the stump speech of Andrew Johnson at the White House and the cotemporary speech of Seward at Cooper's Institute, New York. We are told that Thurlow Weed indorses both and congratulates his friend Seward that "the country is saved." So does ex Governor Morgan, a senator from New York. So does Raymond, Weed's partner in the Times newspaper. So does Fernando Wood, Vallandigham and all the rebels, so does Johnson and possibly so does "Mrs. Johnson," too.

CALIFORNIA CROPS.—The Red Bluff Independent says:

From all parts of the county we have the gratifying intelligence that the crops are looking well, and should the weather continue favorable, with occasional rains, there will be an abundant harvest in this county. On the Antelope ranch alone there are over 5 000 acres under cultivation this year. This includes what belongs to the Company and the smaller farms they have sold or leased. If grain commands the same price this year that it did last, our farmers will have a good thing.

During the week our good old friend, Matthew Fountain of Harrisburg precinct, paid us a visit, and presented us with a splendid ham made from choice pork of his own raising.—Jimmycrat.

Matthew, was not that particular selection of a present to Jimmy a little cruel? Were you aware, Matthew, how many unpleasantly remembered scenes connected with an early speculation would bristle up from that porcine ham to Jimmy's perturbed mental view? That was an unkind cut, Matthew.

IT WON'T CURE CONSUMPTION.—Hall's Pulmonary Balsam is not recommended to cure Consumption but it will give more relief than any other remedy offered to the public, and for all other Pulmonary and Bronchial affections there is nothing equal to it.

AT IT AGAIN.—The organ of Senator Nesmith and the Indian Department at Salem forgets how we put it down some time ago on the question of negro suffrage and now again stigmatizes the OREGONIAN as a negro suffrage organ. Mark now how we shall put it down again. In a letter from President Johnson to Governor Sharkey lately published, we find the following language:

If you [illegible] could extend the elective franchise to all persons [illegible] and to all persons of color [illegible] you would [illegible] and [illegible] to this.

This is equivalent to saying that the negro shall be permitted to vote if the Radicals of the North could thereby be defeated, or in other words the negro may have the elective franchise if he will vote the Democratic ticket. As the Salem paper considers President Johnson the perfect embodiment of all political wisdom and admits the idea that he could under any circumstances fall into mistake, it will be seen that it is itself committed to the doctrine of negro suffrage of which it indiscreetly accuses us. In indorsing all of Johnson's acts and opinions the Federal organ has to take some very bitter medicines. But like the person it worships it will go for negro suffrage with a vim if it be necessary to do it to turn the Radical fanatics' now in Congress out of power.

STATESMANSHIP.—One of the High Commissioners who met with Lincoln and Seward on board the Malvern to discuss on the part of the Confederates terms of truce or peace between the North and South, in relating the incidents of that interview, a few days ago declared that Seward repeatedly stated during that memorable conference that the North was heartily sick of the war. This is of a piece with the statesmanship which opened our document against England for damages through the Alabama with the broad concession that England had done her best to prevent that cruiser being put to sea. We can now see how duly the North trembled while the conference on the Malvern was in progress, and also measure in some degree the dreadful danger we escaped. But for the stiffneckedness of Davis, who would listen to nothing short of a preliminary recognition of his Confederacy the country would this day have been under the feet of Davis, Wade Hampton, Cobb, Semmes, Vallandigham and others of that sort.—B. [illegible]

THE PRESIDENT ON NEGRO SUFFRAGE.—In his first Message to Congress President Johnson declared that if he were in Tennessee then he would advocate the extension of suffrage to the colored people of that State. Mr Kelley M. C. from Philadelphia asserted in a recent speech on the extension of suffrage to the negroes of the District of Columbia, that the President had told him that he favored the bill. What then has wrought the sudden change in his opinions and why is it that he now declares that the bill granting the suffrage to the negroes of the District was wrong? There can be but one answer to the question. He has been manipulated, seduced and captured by the rebels and copperheads, and that is why Union men are now shut out of the White House as assassins and conspirators.—Stockton, California, Independent.

The Case of the United States vs Jacob Mayer

CHARGE TO THE JURY

[The following is the charge given to the jury by Judge M P Deady, March 6th 1866, in the case of the United States against Jacob Mayer, indicted for perjury, tried in the U S District Court as reported phonographically by J. A Waymire

GENTLEMEN —There is one thing more remaining, and that is for the court to charge you in relation to the law touching this case and to make such suggestions to you relative to the rules which should govern you in considering the evidence adduced as it may see fit and proper to do

This indictment was found under the 42d section of the law known as the Internal Revenue Act, which provides as follows

"That if any person in any case, matter, hearing or other proceeding in which an oath or affirmation shall be required to be taken or administered under and by virtue of this act shall, upon the taking of such oath or affirmation, knowingly and wilfully swear or affirm falsely, every person so offending shall be deemed guilty of perjury, and shall on conviction thereof, be subject to the like punishment and penalties now provided by the laws of the United States for the crime of perjury."

You will observe, gentlemen, that this section defines the crime to consist in "knowingly and artfully swearing falsely as to any matter in which the oath is required by this act This act does not prescribe the punishment but provides that the punishment shall be in accordance with the general law of the United States punishing perjury The latter law defines the crime to consist in "knowingly and willingly swearing falsely"—not differing materially from the definition in section 42 of the Internal Revenue Act—and prescribes the punishment to be by a fine not exceeding two thousand dollars and imprisonment at hard labor not exceeding five years.

Something has been said to you by counsel concerning the punishment prescribed by law for this crime, and how much or how little this circumstance should effect the deliberation or the decision of the jury. On that question I deem it proper to say something to you, and I will say it here. It is true, as has been stated by the counsel, that when you have passed upon the fact as to whether the defendant is guilty or not guilty, the punishment must be fixed by the court and not by you. It is the duty of the jury to find the defendant guilty or not guilty as they may determine from the facts shown by the evidence. The defendant may be punished under the statute according to the aggravation of the offense, by fine not exceeding two thousand dollars, or it may be one dollar, and by imprisonment in the penitentiary—for that is what confinement at hard labor signifies for a term not exceeding five years, or for one day. The defendant if found guilty may be punished by a fine of two thousand dollars or one dollar, or by imprisonment for five years or for one day, according to the aggravation of the offense. So far, gentlemen, as this punishment is concerned, it is not in itself to determine the result of your deliberations. You are not to find the defendant guilty because the law prescribes a light punishment for the offense, nor to acquit him because it imposes a heavy one. The jury are selected to try the guilt or innocence of the defendant and not to prescribe the extent or manner of the punishment. The whole people of the United States represented in Congress, are the law-making power, and they determine by a uniform rule throughout the United States, what acts shall be declared criminal, and to what extent they shall be punished, so that it is not within the province of any particular jury to judge as to the punishment of a crime, the jury can only determine the guilt or innocence of the prisoner. Yet it is human nature, it is natural, and it is reasonable that, in determining the question of a man's guilt or innocence, a jury should consider the result of their verdict, and that, in proportion to the severity of punishment, their deliberations should be marked with gravity and seriousness. It may be said that a jury in determining a case where a man's life is at stake, would scan with more care the testimony of witnesses than they would in some ordinary case where only a few dollars are in controversy; but in no case should they violate their oaths and consciences by returning a verdict contrary to their honest convictions arising from the evidence because of the punishment prescribed by law.

While speaking of punishment, I may also say that the jury, whenever they have good reason for so doing, may, if they see proper recommend the criminal to the mercy of the Court. I do not wish to mislead you in this. It would still rest with the Court to examine into the merits of the case and determine the punishment within the limits fixed by the law, but in so doing the Court would give respectful heed and consideration to your recommendation and be governed by it so far as approved reasonable.

The defendant in this case is charged by the indictment of the Grand jury of this District with the crime of perjury alleged to have been committed on the 9th of May, 1865 by wilfully and knowingly swearing falsely to the amount of his gains and profits for the year 1864.

To this charge the defendant pleads not guilty, and this plea of the defendant, in law, controverts every material allegation of the indictment and puts the proof of them upon the Government.

The paper in proof which contains the statement sworn to on the 9th of May, 1865, contains many matters not material to your inquiry on the determination of this case. The perjury, if any, was committed in the statement at the head of the paper, wherein the defendant says that the whole amount of his gains and profits for the year 1864 was only $8,800. Following this immediately is the statement of the expenses of the business—proper deductions to be made from the gross gains or profits.

Your inquiry then, as to whether the defendant has committed the crime of perjury as charged in the indictment, will be confined to the truth or falsity of this statement—that the gross gains and profits of the defendant for the year 1864, were only $8,800.

The statement of the defendant's expenses in carrying on his business, as set forth in his first return, has not been controverted by any proof, if I recollect aright, except so far as the same is contradicted by the statement in the second return. The claim then, of the prosecution, that you may find the defendant guilty on account of the contradictions in the two affidavits in this particular, is not sustained by the law applicable to the proof of perjury. The two affidavits standing alone, simply equalize each other—the proof afforded by them is in a state of equilibrium. Although you may have an opinion that the first is false and the second true, yet it could not be based upon such evidence as the law requires to produce and sustain a verdict of guilty upon an indictment for perjury. There must be some other proof, besides the admission in the second affidavit that the first is false in this particular. As I have said, then, the question for your determination is, whether the defendant committed perjury by wilfully stating his gross gains and profits for the year 1864, to be only $8,800—knowing the same to be false

To ascertain whether this statement is true or not, you must inquire what the gross gains or profits of the defendant really were. For this purpose you may take the proof of the gross amount of sales for the year, which appear to be within a fraction of $80,000. Take the proof as to what are the customary profits of such business during the year and find the reasonable average of them, and this you may assume to be the profits of the amount of sales. Deduct from this amount the expenses of the business as given in the statement of the defendant, except the items of insurance, freight and expressage, and you have the gains and profits except as I will further state to you. I except the items of insurance, freight and expressage, because all the witnesses in stating the usual rate of profits for that year, have taken such expenses into the account.

One other matter of deduction, and that is the insolvent debts or losses As the Court construes the Internal Revenue Act, and it is the most favorable construction of the Act that could be made for the defendant, the defendant was authorized to deduct from his gross gains or profits, the amount of any debts which accrued and became insolvent in the year 1864. It is not sufficient that a debt became insolvent between the last day of the year and the 9th of May. His affidavit, although made on the 9th day of May, 1865, is made not with reference to the state of things then existing, but as to what existed at the close of the year 1864. If you find from the testimony that any of these debts of which the witnesses have spoken, did become insolvent in the year 1864, or that the defendant as a reasonable, sensible man had good reason to think so, then you will deduct these from the gains or profits, thus ascertained. If by this process you find that the gains or profits of the defendant substantially agree with his statement of the 9th of May, then the statement is not false, and your verdict must be not guilty In determining what debts the defendant regarded as insolvent on the 31st of December, 1864, if you find that the defendant at the time of closing his books at the end of the year, separated his solvent debts from his insolvent debts as a business transaction, this is the best evidence of what the defendant believed to be insolvent debts When a merchant at the end of the year, without reference to any pending controversy sits down in his counting room, and deliberately determines that A & B are insolvent and C & D solvent, this is better evidence of what the defendant knew and thought about the condition of these debts, at that date, than claims and opinions formed after a controversy has arisen about the matter.

If by this process however, you find that the return made on the 9th of May was false, then you are to enquire whether the falsehood was knowingly and wilfully stated by the defendant This is a common sense question for you to determine from the evidence If a person is honestly mistaken in his sworn statement, this is not perjury, or if he makes it honestly upon the advice of counsel after stating to him all the facts, where the question involves a question of law But if a man rashly or foolhardily swears to what he knows nothing about or has no good reason to believe true, he cannot claim that this is a mistake, and the law declares it perjury So if an oath is taken upon the advice of an attorney, it is not an excuse or justification, if the advice goes to the facts and not to some question of law But in this case there is no evidence that the oath of the 9th of May was made under the advice of counsel or anybody else

If you find that the oath was false but made not rashly or inconsiderately, and without knowledge of its falsehood then your verdict should be not guilty But if you find that the oath was false, and the defendant knew it, or took it rashly without knowing whether it was true or not, then you should find the defendant guilty.

One word as to the corrupt intent The words of the statute defining the crime are knowingly and wilfully,—the word corruptly is not used It may be a question whether the court should construe this statute, so as to require it to appear that the oath was taken knowingly and wilfully with a corrupt intent, but the court will so construe it A corrupt intent, is a purpose to procure or make some unlawful advantage or gain to the affiant, or to injure another. This corrupt intent you may infer from all the circumstances of the case It is a mere matter of calculation to say that the smaller the return, the less taxes the defendant would have to pay. If you find then that the oath was knowingly and wilfully false, to a statement of his return which was less than the fact, it is a legitimate and reasonable inference, that the defendant took the oath for the purpose of unjustly and wrongfully securing to himself a portion of this tax or defrauding the government out of it, or both.

These are the general instructions which I deem it necessary to give you—to which I will add some remarks in relation to particular matters.

In regard to the second affidavit, I will remind you that the perjury charged against the defendant in the indictment, is not said to be committed in taking that affidavit, and, therefore, although the oath taken in the second affidavit may be false—although in it the defendant did actually commit perjury, he cannot in this action be found guilty on that account The question turns exclusively upon the fact as to whether the defendant committed the crime of perjury in taking the first affidavit. The defendant has been allowed to show to you the circumstances attending the taking of the second affidavit, so far as he desired to do so What was said to him and what was said to others engaged in taking it, or who were merely lookers on and taking no particular part in the matter—for the purpose of enabling you to judge more correctly as to whether this second statement was made by him because it was true, or whether he was induced to take it by the representations and inducements of others, although he knew it was false, thus showing you how much credit you are to give to it, in determining as between it and the first affidavit, which is true. Counsel for the defendant in his argument to you last evening, read to you the report of the testimony given by Backenstos, a witness who puts everything in the most favorable light for the defendant, and I deem it proper to call your attention in this connection also to the statement of Thomas Frazar, the officer who had control over the proceeding—rather than Backenstos, who is a clerk in Mr. Frazar's office. If you will remember, Mr. Frazar testified that he told the defendant that he might sign the second affidavit or not, as he pleased; that it made no difference with him, whether it was signed or not, the taxes would be collected upon that assessment, anyhow, but for the sake of having the papers in the office in regular form, he would prefer that they should be signed by the defendant Now, Mr. Frazar was the person in authority. You are to consider, also, what was said to the defendant at the time he signed the affidavit, by the witness Grooms, who appears to have been a deputy of Mr. Frazar, and who administered this oath and was exercising authority at the time. Grooms said to the defendant, as you will remember, that he had better sign it; that he was instructed to say that if the defendant would sign it, he would thereby be relieved from the penalty imposed by the Assessor on account of the alleged misstatement in the false, income return. Mr. Frazar was the officer in authority, and Mr. Grooms was exercising authority as his deputy. You are, therefore, to consider what was said by them. All these circumstances are to be considered by you in determining whether the second affidavit is true or not true, and how far it goes to show that the first one is false.

So far as the testimony relative to the penalty is concerned, it has been given to the jury to enable them to determine how far the defendant may have been induced to make the second affidavit, although he knew it to be false, for the purpose of being relieved from the payment of this additional sum.

As to what proof is necessary to constitute perjury, the old law was, that two witnesses were necessary, but that rule has been greatly modified. First, it was modified by substituting for it the rule that one witness and corroborating testimony or circumstances, should be sufficient to prove the charge.

In the courts of the United States, following the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States, books and documents alone have been made sufficient proof of perjury. A celebrated case was quoted in your hearing last evening by counsel for the defendant where the falsity of the matter sworn to by the party as shown by the books and papers kept by the defendant and under his control and inspection, was held sufficient proof of perjury. without a living witness. This was a case in which a party importing goods from Liverpool to the United States made oath to their value at the custom-house, which oath was shown to be false by the books and letters of the defendant. The ruling in this case was affirmed in the Supreme Court of the United States, and the law established that a party can be convicted of perjury without the evidence of any living witness as to the falsity of the oath. In this case, the second affidavit, if true, is a solemn admission under oath that the first affidavit is false. The testimony in regard to the sales of the defendant, as shown by his books and the testimony as to the profits upon such sales, is testimony as to the truth or falsity of the statement made in the first affidavit. If, then, you believe from the testimony given you, that this statement is false, and that it was made knowingly and wilfully and with a corrupt intent, that will be sufficient evidence to justify you in finding a verdict of guilty.

A good deal has been said as to those books of the defendant You are to presume, gentlemen, and act upon that presumption, that all the testimony which is pertinent to the issue in question and favorable to the defendant, has been submitted to you. Any pretences to the contrary are mere buncomb, made by the counsel for the defendant for the purpose of influencing your minds otherwise than the testimony would warrant. I say such is the presumption. You are to decide this case as you have sworn to do, according to the evidence given you and not according to what the counsel may tell you as to what might have been proved. So far as these books are concerned their contents have been shown to you only so far as to ascertain their truth of and explain the statements made by the prosecution concerning them This the defendant has been allowed to do—any thing more would be irrelevant. For instance, the prosecution proves to you by testimony of the witnesses who have examined the books that the sales amount to so much, which requires no expert book keeper, no great amount of mercantile erudition to ascertain, and if it did, the defendant might have had twenty book keepers to examine them if he had desired it The presumption is that this statement of the amount of sales is correct The prosecution have also shown by Harry Novison that between the first day of January, 1864, and the fifteenth day of January, 1865, at the time the defendant was posting his books and taking an account of business for 1864, an explanation of the books was made, and that he selected such debts as he then considered bad and entered them on a page of the ledger for 1865 According to this selection the bad debts amounted to something between twelve and fifteen hundred dollars As for the statement by counsel for defendant that the amount of the profits for the year 1864, should be shown by the books rather than the testimony of witnesses as to the average profits on such sales, you will remember, gentlemen, that the testimony of Backenstos was that he found no profit and loss accounts in the books and there has been no testimony offered or given to contradict this statement, except that concerning the page of bad debts shown by the prosecution

A good deal has been said to you about the veracity of the witness, Novison You are the exclusive judges of the credibility of the witness and you should not act rashly nor without judgment in exercising that decision. The witness, Novison, has been assailed by the defendant as unworthy of belief. It is claimed that he harbors feelings of revenge or malice against the defendant and that he has denied, or refused or failed to remember certain offensive remarks or threats which he made in relation to the defendant which other witnesses have testified to You will take into consideration, in determining all these circumstances, the question whether a man may not hate another and yet tell the truth about him; whether he may not feel like seeing him punished and yet not necessarily play the part of a knave to injure him, particularly when under oath But when you find a witness in a state of mind in which evidences strong hatred toward the defendant you should be on your guard for his passions may sway his judgment or warp his feelings and cause him to misrepresent the facts He may remember things and brood over them until he greatly enlarges them but it does not follow by any means, that, because a man dislikes another he will wilfully swear a lie against him. On the other hand some of the witnesses are still old and warm friends or dependants of the defendant and it may be well for you to consider whether love is not as strong a passion as hate A devoted friend of the defendant is as likely to swear falsely in his favor as an enemy against him. You are to consider these things I put you on your guard

Again, a witness may through mistake swear falsely as to some particular, and yet testify truly as to others Of this you may be satisfied from the innate probability of his statement or the corroboration of other admitted or established facts and circumstances before you But if you are satisfied that a witness has intentionally sworn falsely in any material particular in his testimony, the remainder of his evidence should be received with distrust and not credited unless extremely probable in itself or strongly corroborated You are also the judges as to what the witness did say.

One thing more, as to character Evidence has been introduced by the defendant to show that he has a good character for truth and veracity Character is only important as evidence when a case is doubtful. No proof of good character against plain proof of guilt can be considered because experience has shown that the best of men have fallen, but in cases of doubt, if it appears that a man has had a good character in the community in which he has lived, the fact should be taken into consideration by you as a circumstance against the probability of guilt The law presumes a man innocent until he is proven to be guilty. To establish the fact that a man has, for years, borne a good character for truth and veracity in a community, it should be shown that he has lived in the gaze of the public, that he has been criticised, canvassed and tried and found worthy of confidence in this respect—but simply to show that nothing has been said about his character pro or con, is little more than the presumption which the law makes—that he is innocent

In conclusion, gentlemen, allow me to say that you have an important duty to perform, both as regards the people of the United States and this defendant As has been said of old, an oath ought to be the end of controversy Whenever it comes to pass that a man may swear falsely without fear of punishment, all confidence between man and man will be at an end. Whenever that day arrives there will be an end to the security upon which rests the fabric of civil society and government—the correct and impartial administration of justice

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

617 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgence, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies and that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes; pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, foted breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by [illegible] of the San Francisco quacks

DOCTOR GIBBON is [illegible], and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Doctor Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.
